

ProQuest

ProQuest News Resources

At ProQuest, we know that every improvement we make in users' workflow frees them to spend more time on their core mission. This often means conquering barriers between researchers and the content they require. Among the most sought-after primary source content types are news media sources that chronicled the people and events that defined history.

And no one does news like ProQuest.

Researchers tell us that missing relevant information is their number one worry, so we dig deep to understand their requirements. We know that...

- They want historical archives that enable researchers to explore spans of time, examining changing perspectives as facts surfaced.
- They want the local, and regional views to go deep into the events and people in their own backyard.
- They want specialty newspapers and news content for viewpoints that make research more fully developed.
- They want up to the minute: contemporary news sources present trends in life, culture, business, and milestones of all types.

Only ProQuest offers such diversity in news – four centuries and breaking news, six continents, niche markets, multimedia, from the international perspective to national to small town and county papers, expertly digitized, indexed and organized with cross-searching that enables comprehensive information retrieval in one step. ProQuest's news resources empower researchers to go further, faster.

Contemporary News

At ProQuest, we are committed to providing easy access to the diversity of content researchers need to enable them to focus on what matters most: outstanding research discoveries and results.

Politics. Natural disasters. Economics. Popular culture. Foreign affairs. Terrorism. All of these topics ripple through international, national and regional news stories as they occur, providing users with information and perspectives of the times, for deeper and more robust research experiences.

Among users' most sought after primary sources are the contemporary news mediums that chronicle and provide analysis on the people and events that shape our world. ProQuest offers the broadest collection of the most important U.S. and international news content, including the most-requested and influential top newspapers, online news sources, news wires, broadcast transcripts, and blogs—all available in full-text format.

No one does contemporary news like ProQuest.

Contemporary News Premier Collection

Global Newsstream

The most prominent global news content

GLOBAL NEWSSTREAM PROVIDES access to the most influential and respected contemporary news resources from around the globe — from today's news to backfiles dating back to the 1980s. This comprehensive contemporary news collection delivers superior access to current, full-text news sources including newspapers, newswires, news journals, television and radio transcripts, blogs, podcasts, and digital-only websites. There are no paywalls, and most content loads same day — oftentimes by 8 AM U.S. Eastern time.

This “gold standard” contemporary news collection combines ProQuest’s U.S. Newsstream, Canadian Newsstream, and International Newsstream into one of the largest collections of news from the U.S., Canada, Europe, Africa, Asia, Latin America, and Australia.

Key U.S. national titles include:

The New York Times (backfile from 1980 forward)
The Wall Street Journal (from 1984 forward)
Washington Post (from 1987 forward)
Los Angeles Times (from 1985 forward)
Chicago Tribune (from 1985 forward)
The Boston Globe (from 1980 forward)
Newsday (from 1995 forward)

The Wall Street Journal Online
ProPublica
Huffington Post
 CNN Newswires
 Politico
 60 Minutes

Key international titles include:

The Straits Times (backfile from 1995 forward)
The Guardian (backfile from 1996 forward)
Financial Times (backfile from 1996 forward)
The Globe and Mail (backfile from 1977 forward)

The Age (backfile from 1996 forward)
El Mundo (backfile from 2008 forward)
Toronto Star (backfile from 1985 forward)
South China Morning Post (backfile from 1993 forward)

Why Global Newsstream?

- Best resource for U.S. and international major news titles and resources: Global Newsstream offers superior access to current, full-text newspapers with longer backfile and/or more timely access to The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, Chicago Tribune, The Boston Globe, Newsday, and Los Angeles Times as well as over 80 Gannett regional and local titles. In addition, Global Newsstream content also includes newswires, news journals, television and radio transcripts, videos, blogs, podcasts, and digital-only websites. All content can be searched together or separately for maximum researcher efficiency. ProQuest offers flexible subscription options for many premier titles or Newsstream collections within Global Newsstream, as well.
- One of the most requested resources for research: In recent analyses of overall usage and retrievals, News content is the second-most retrieved type for researchers on the ProQuest platform. With Global Newsstream, researchers have access to thousands of full-text primary source news sources.
- Cross searchability enhances researcher output: Fully cross searchable with other essential ProQuest products including the ABI/INFORM Collection, Historical Newspapers, and all other databases an institution accesses via the ProQuest platform, ProQuest has digitized major titles from around the globe from the first issue forward, making them conveniently available through a Historical Newspapers subscription. When combined with Global Newsstream, these sources offer unrivalled coverage from earliest issues to current day.

- Maximizes researchers' time: Global Newsstream pairs robust searching features with detailed indexing to help researchers quickly find the news information they need as well as track news events over time or at location of origin. The indexing covers complete bibliographic information including subjects, companies, people, products, and geographic areas so that users have access to not only top news stories but also detailed information on the arts, sports, business, and popular culture. And, workflow tools such as RSS/alerts, text-to-speech capability, cite, share, print, and export help make the research process flexible, thorough, and efficient. Many citation formats are available, and articles can be translated into 13 languages.

Contemporary News Full Text Databases

Alt-PressWatch

Full-text newspapers and magazines from alternative and independent presses

An alternative to mainstream media perspectives

Alt-PressWatch showcases unique, independent voices from many respected and cited grassroots newspapers, magazines, and journals. The database features around a million articles from over 270 publications, offering a wide range of unfettered, critical coverage of the news. Providing an alternative to corporate controlled media, the Alt-PressWatch database presents big stories from small sources.

Thought-provoking titles

Alt-PressWatch gives readers and researchers access to many distinctive, thought-provoking titles. Alternative news weeklies offer different perspectives on U.S. government, policy, and culture; report on local, national, and international issues; and cover hot-button topics like hunger, abuse, the environment, religion, and pop culture.

Alt-PressWatch offers:

- A unique blend of full-text newspapers, magazines, and journals of alternative, independent, small presses, providing researchers access to essential, often overlooked perspectives.
- It may be combined with Ethnic NewsWatch and GenderWatch, both databases that present minority and cultural perspectives.
- Alternative perspectives for major topics, hot issues, events, and lifestyles.
- Coverage back to 1983 and many of the titles in this resource are not found in any other aggregated periodical resource.
- Many titles espousing a left political viewpoint, as well as a growing number on the right of the political spectrum. Other issues are covered, such as the arts, environmental activism, alternative lifestyles, disabilities, public policy, and other cultural aspects.
- Magazines and journals of the independent press such as Broken Pencil (which focuses on zine culture), Dissent, Solidarity's Against the Current, The American Conservative, Left Curve, The Braille Forum, and Earth First!
- Alternative news weeklies like Eugene Weekly, Missoula Independent, and The Village Voice offer non-mainstream perspectives on government, policy, and culture; report on local, national, and international issues; and cover hot-button topics like hunger, abuse, religion, and pop culture.

Available on ProQuest, named Best Interface in the 2015 Charleston Advisor Readers' Choice Awards.

"It is much more intuitive and easy to use than previous versions. It includes improved document viewing, easier navigation... Kudos to ProQuest."

Asian Newsstream

Access to key Asian contemporary news sources

ASIAN NEWSSTREAM OFFERS access to more than 200 news sources featuring news content from across Asia, including newspapers, newswires, trade journals, magazines, and websites, with archives for some titles back to the 1980s. Coverage includes titles from China, Japan, India, and Pakistan.

Important titles available in Asian Newsstream include: The Straits Times, China Daily News, The Hindu, South China Morning Post, and The Daily Yomiuri, among many others. Researchers using Asian Newsstream can take advantage of the ProQuest interface language feature. Articles can be translated from English to 12 other language options, including Chinese (simplified), Chinese (traditional), Japanese, Korean, and others for a user-friendly research experience.

Why Asian Newsstream?

- Best resource for Asian major news titles and resources: Asian Newsstream offers superior access to current, full-text news sources with longer backfile and/or more timely access to titles from China, Japan, India, and Pakistan, including The Straits Times, China Daily News, The Hindu, South China Morning Post, and The Daily Yomiuri. In addition, Asian Newsstream content also includes newswires, news journals, transcripts, blogs, podcasts, and websites. All content can be searched together or separately for maximum researcher efficiency. ProQuest offers flexible subscription options for many premier titles or collections within Asian Newsstream, as well.
- One of the most requested resources for research: In recent analyses of overall usage and retrievals, news content is the second-most retrieved type for researchers on the ProQuest platform. With Asian Newsstream, researchers have easy access to key full-text primary source news sources.
- Cross searchability enhances researcher output: Asian Newsstream is fully cross searchable with other essential ProQuest products including the ABI/INFORM Collection, Historical Newspapers, and all other databases an institution accesses via the ProQuest platform, enhancing researcher output by providing easy access to multiple perspectives, resources, and languages relevant to their research topic. ProQuest has digitized major titles from around the globe from the first issue forward, making them conveniently available through a Historical Newspapers subscription. When combined with Asian Newsstream, these sources offer unrivalled coverage from earliest issues to current day.
- Maximizes researchers' time: Asian Newsstream pairs robust searching features with indexing to help researchers quickly find the news information they need as well as track news events over time or at location of origin. The indexing covers bibliographic information including subjects, companies, people, products, and geographic areas so that users have access to top news stories and information on the arts, sports, business, and popular culture. And, workflow tools such as RSS/alerts, text-to-speech capability, cite, share, print, and export help make the research process flexible, thorough, and efficient. Many citation formats are available, and articles can be translated into 13 languages with text-to-speech compatibility.

Ethnic NewsWatch

Additional viewpoints for the other side of the story

ETHNIC NEWSWATCH IS a current resource of full-text newspapers, magazines, and journals of the ethnic and minority press, providing researchers access to essential, often overlooked perspectives. It contains Ethnic NewsWatch: A History, which provides historical coverage of Native American, African American, and Hispanic American periodicals from 1959-1989. Together, these resources present an unmatched, comprehensive, full-text collection of more than 2.5 million articles from over 340 publications. Perhaps the most valuable aspect of the resources is the inclusion of unique community publications not found in any other database, as well as top scholarly journals on ethnicities and ethnic studies.

Only Ethnic NewsWatch offers content directly from multicultural and multiethnic presses. No other resource so completely and comprehensively allows researchers and users to gain valuable perspectives from a wide array of voices and peoples. While the content may mirror mainstream media coverage, the viewpoints are decidedly unique.

About Ethnic NewsWatch:

- Nearly a quarter of the articles included in Ethnic NewsWatch since 1989 are in Spanish, making Ethnic NewsWatch an unmatched bilingual database.
- Excellent coverage of major ethnicities including: African American, Hispanic, Jewish, Asian, and Native peoples – all primarily from their own presses. Other ethnicities and cultural groups are monitored as they develop their own presses, and these new publications are targeted. Kurdish titles and new Muslim community titles have been recently added.
- The resource allows voices of the Asian American, Jewish, African American, Native American, Arab American, Eastern European, and multi-ethnic communities to be heard, as well as cultural groups within these categories, such as Kurdish communities.
- The only periodical resource that is multi-ethnic and multi-cultural in scope and the only resource that provides access to unique ethnic, cultural, and community presses. Most of the publications cannot be found in the usual large aggregated databases.
- Provides information and opinions on topics not covered in mainstream publications.
- It is primarily a full-text resource, reducing frustration for the end user at reaching dead ends.
- Inclusion of selected dissertations and working papers, providing context and facilitating deeper research into the issues and topics of ethnic studies.
- Ethnic NewsWatch: A History provides backfile access from 1959-1989 with 1.3 million full-text articles.

GenderWatch

Authoritative perspectives on gender and women's studies and lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) research

GENDERWATCH ENHANCES GENDER and women's studies and lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) research by providing authoritative perspectives from 1970 to present. This well-established and highly reviewed resource offers titles from academic, radical, community, and independent presses. More than simply a research tool, GenderWatch promotes an understanding of gender and how it affects society both in the present and throughout recent history.

This comprehensive full-text database of periodicals and other materials focuses on topics relevant to gender and women studies. It continues to grow with over 300,000 full-text articles from over 300 publications, including journals, magazines, newspapers, newsletters, regional publications, books, booklets and pamphlets, conference proceedings, government, and special reports.

The wide range of publications in GenderWatch provides new insights on current topics, such as health care reform, gender issues in the military, fertility, domestic and other violence, diversity in the workplace, social and societal roles, body image, gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgendered issues, and many other social and political issues important to researchers. ProQuest is committed to sustaining the resource as the best source of periodical literature on the subjects of gender and women's studies.

One of GenderWatch's most valuable assets is its archival material, which in some cases dates back as far as the 1970s. For instance, the influential Off Our Backs is presented in full text from 1970 to the last published issue in 2008. This historic material makes it a repository of important historical perspective on the evolution of gender issues and sexual roles over the last 40 years.

GenderWatch offers:

- Continuous addition of new titles: updates to the current set of content daily mean title growth of 20 percent since 2009.
- Diverse content: new types of content such as dissertations and scholarly working papers are added regularly to provide a deeper content set for current scholars.
- Global coverage: 33 percent of the active titles are published outside of the United States.
- Indexing for important academic journals: where full text cannot be licensed at this time, titles are indexed to provide coverage and links.
- Key titles: examples include the Springer title Feminist Legal Studies, The New Zealand Women's Studies Association's Women's Studies Journal, University of Laval's Recherches Feministes: revue interdisciplinaire francophone d'etudes feministe, The University of Western Australia, Centre for Women's Studies journal Outskirts, Curve, Journal of Research in Gender Studies, Lesbians on the Loose (LOTL), and Women in Academia Report.
- Relevance: GenderWatch contains only titles on women's studies and gender issues. Cross-searching with other resources on ProQuest enables access to related content in general interest periodicals from other databases.

"No other database covers the discipline of gender studies so thoroughly or in such depth."

Female Roles Drove Top Films of 2017

Sorry, Batman. So close, yet so far away, Star-Lord. Better luck next time, Captain Jack Sparrow. Rather, the three most popular movies at theaters in the United States and Canada in 2017 — “Star Wars: The Last Jedi,” “Beauty and the Beast” and “Wonder Woman” — were each driven by female characters, something that has not happened in at least 37 years, as far back bussen has been named a dame. Mr. Starr, 77, receives the honor two decades after his fellow bandmate Paul McCartney. Mr. McCartney congratulated Mr. Starr in an Instagram post: “Sir Richard Starkey has a nice ring to it,” he wrote. Mr. Starr released a statement of his own, saying, “It’s an honor and a pleasure to be considered and acknowledged for my music and my charity work, both of which I love.” Mr. Gibb, 71, dedicated his knighthood to his late brothers

ProQuest Digitized Newspapers - Recent Newspapers

Essential full-image, full-text newspapers

PROQUEST DIGITIZED NEWSPAPERS – Recent Newspapers is a new archive that offers recent editions of essential and most-requested newspaper titles. Users are able to search PDF images of every part of every page, including full-text news articles, photos, advertisements, classified ads, obituaries, cartoons, and more, with keyword highlighting.

Titles are available individually or as part of a regional collection. Coverage for Recent Newspapers begins in the late 2000s and goes up through the most recent issue, with a three-month embargo. Content is hosted on the ProQuest platform where it can also be cross-searched with all other relevant products for a seamless, comprehensive research experience. This archive will grow to include more than 50 newspaper titles in 2018 with new additions continually being added in the future.

Why Recent Newspapers?

One of the most requested resources for research: In analyses of overall usage and retrievals, news content is the second-most retrieved source type for researchers on the ProQuest platform. And a 2017 ProQuest survey shows that over 72% of researchers use newspapers – key sources that often contain detailed information that is missing from other kinds of historical publications. With Recent Newspapers, researchers have superior access to essential full-image, full-text primary newspaper sources from 2008-recent with three-month embargoes.

- Insight into multiple perspectives: Recent Newspapers on the ProQuest platform allows for cover-to-cover searching and browsing of complete newspaper editions. Additionally, users can find a broader view of issues and events by cross-searching all of ProQuest’s complete runs of Historical Newspapers and Global Newsstream news sources.
- 360° view of news: When combined with Historical Newspapers and Global Newsstream, researchers gain unrivalled coverage of people, places and events from the earliest newspaper publications to current day reports for a seamless, comprehensive search experience.
- User-friendly support tools to facilitate research: Users benefit from the ability to search by page and cross-search key words in context article. They can also focus on relevant information quickly with hit-term highlighting, high-resolution grey-scale images, and search and download in PDF format.

TWENTY-SECOND YEAR

The Arizona Republican (1890-2007)

The state's largest newspaper

FROM THE DUST of the territory's new capital, Phoenix, The Arizona Republican arose in 1890 to ultimately become the state's largest newspaper. Fighting for business, publishers of the area's early papers often dueled for readership with colorful, sometimes combative language and sensationalized stories. In one instance, it went further than words; someone actually shot at Edwin S. Gill, one of the Republican's first editors.

Delivering news about a changing world to its readers, The Arizona Republican focused on local and national politics and ways to make the territory a better place to live. It was instrumental in the campaign for Arizona statehood, which was achieved in 1912.

Reporting on events taking place shortly after the surrender of Apache Chief Geronimo and the fighting of the Mexican Revolution, to America's entry into World War I, the founding of the Grand Canyon National Park, and the roots of today's immigration debates, this historical newspaper provides readers and researchers with a unique view of history from a Southwestern perspective.

JOHN KENNEDY ASSASSINATED;

Austin American Statesman (1871-1978)

Newspaper of the Lone Star state's capital

AS THE LEADING newspaper in the capital of Texas, the historical Austin American Statesman provides researchers with unique insights into the political, economic, cultural, and social life of this important state, as well as the southwest U.S. from the late 19th through the 20th century. The paper has strong central Texas coverage, especially for political reporting.

Founded in 1871, the newspaper started out as the Democratic Statesman. Its political origins were based on the state's Democratic Party. By 1873 the paper began daily morning publication, and in 1914 the Democratic Statesman took over the Austin Tribune. The newly consolidated paper began to publish each afternoon as the Austin Statesman and Tribune. And, in November 1973, the Austin American and the Austin Statesman were combined and became the Austin American Statesman.

Topics covered include:

- Reconstruction Period of Texas
- Development of Austin as a primary railroad hub of the southwestern U.S.
- Founding and growth of the University of Texas
- Austin Dam collapse
- Evolution of Austin as the state capital

The Baltimore Sun (1837–1992)

A paper devoted to the news that most directly affected the lives of its readers

FOUNDED BY ARUNAH Shepherdson Abell as a paper devoted to the news that most directly affected the lives of its readers, The Baltimore Sun's history is among the most distinguished in American journalism. It represented this bustling port city by reporting on pivotal issues and events of the 19th and early 20th centuries: immigration, the slave trade, commerce, the Civil War, Washington D.C. politics (The Baltimore Sun began publishing 40 years before the Washington Post), Americana, and literature. H.L. Mencken, the “Sage of Baltimore” and one of the most influential American writers of the early 20th century, wrote for this renowned newspaper.

Provide genealogists, researchers, and scholars with online, easily searchable first-hand accounts and unparalleled coverage of the politics, society, and events of the time, now available from ProQuest.

The Boston Globe (1872–1987)

A window through which to study New England and American history

THE DEVASTATING 1872 Boston fire. The suspenseful 1893 Lizzie Borden ax murder trial. The catastrophic 1919 police strike. Mid-twentieth century decline and renewal. These dramatic stories as well as accounts of everyday life in historical New England await your online researchers in the digitized pages of The Boston Globe (1872-1987), part of ProQuest's Historical Newspapers.

In the late 1800s and early 1900s, Boston, already one of America's largest cities, was struggling to absorb the immigrants that continued to pour onto its shores. It was a time of rapid industrialization, technological innovation, and urban development. It also was an era that saw a dramatic rise in the cost of living, the deterioration of labor relations, and an increase in poverty and crime. By the mid-twentieth century, Boston had entered a period of decline, which was followed by controversial urban renewal projects and an economic boom in the 1970s.

Whether your researchers are interested in genealogy, "Yankee" perspectives on local and national events, politics, culture, urban development, business, religion, or other topics, The Boston Globe provides a window through which to study firsthand this fascinating time and place in American history.

Chicago Tribune (1849–1995)

A chronicle of Chicago's dramatic history

WHEN FIRST INCORPORATED, Chicago was a swampy little town populated only by a few hundred people. Soon after, the historical Chicago Tribune (1849-1995) began chronicling the city's challenges, achievements, and evolution into one of America's finest cities.

The Chicago Tribune provided detailed accounts of the Great Fire of 1871, which killed hundreds, nearly destroyed the city, resulted in many reforms, and spurred new growth. In 1893 and 1909, the newspaper's special Chicago Jubilee issues described and celebrated the city's tremendous progress. It also reported on the Progressive Movement, followed the works of Nobel Peace Prize-winning social reformer Jane Addams, exposed the activities of mobsters like Al Capone, and reported on the city's machine politics. To incisively convey ideas, opinions, and emotions, the Chicago Tribune relied on Pulitzer Prize-winning John T. McCutcheon's editorial cartoons.

To trace the development of Chicago and the Midwest, and to study subjects as diverse as politics, architecture, social reform, and art, start with the historical Chicago Tribune.

The Christian Science Monitor (1908–2004)

The human element behind global events

AFTER BEING PROVOKED by Joseph Pulitzer's New York World newspaper for her unconventional religious ideas, 87-year-old Mary Baker Eddy founded The Christian Science Monitor. In contrast to the yellow journalism of the day, this newspaper's directive was to "injure no man, but to bless all mankind." Over the decades, her newspaper has earned many awards for journalistic excellence — including, ironically, several "Pulitzer" Prizes.

With the exception of publishing one religious article each day at the request of the pioneering Mrs. Eddy, The Christian Science Monitor provides secular, balanced coverage of international news and events, as a public service. For more than 100 years, its staff writers and correspondents around the world have reported on wars, scientific discoveries, human rights abuses, political campaigns, the arts, the environment, and people trying to make a positive difference.

THE CINCINNATI DAILY ENQUIRER.

ProQuest

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY, ON THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF MAIN AND THIRD STREET.

CINCINNATI, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1845.

WHOLE NO.

The Cincinnati Enquirer (1841–2009)

News from the Perspective from an Early Western Boomtown

WHEN THE CINCINNATI Enquirer printed its first issue 1841, the thriving city – the nation’s 6th largest in the mid-19th century – was known as “The Queen of the West.” A remarkable period of rapid growth, epitomizing the expansive spirit of the country at large, gave The Cincinnati Enquirer a unique perspective to report on international, national and regional news.

Sports, music, historic architecture and unique culinary staples, like “Cincinnati Chili” (which is served over spaghetti) and Goetta (a German-inspired fried meat and grain sausage) are central to the city’s culture. Cincinnati’s major league baseball team, the Cincinnati Reds, originated as America’s first professional baseball team, the Cincinnati Red Stockings. A vibrant jazz scene, which continues to the present day, contributed to the careers of such luminaries and Louis Armstrong, Jellyroll Morton and Hoagy Carmichael. Additionally, several Fortune 500 companies are headquartered in Cincinnati, including Procter & Gamble, Kroger and Macy’s, Inc.

The digitized pages of this historic newspaper (1841-2009) provide researchers from a range of studies, including history, political science, economics and genealogy, with reports on world affairs, national events and a record of regional topics related to agriculture, manufacturing, government and people from the exciting, dynamic viewpoint of a quintessential western boomtown.

Dayton Daily News (1898–1922)

Insights into the political and social history of Ohio and the wider U.S.

KNOWN AS THE “Birthplace of Aviation,” Dayton has long been associated with the history of invention, patents, and manufacturing. The Wright brothers, the creators of the world’s first successful airplane, hailed from Dayton and the city was the epicenter of other manufacturing innovations, such as the development of the electronic cash register and the electrical starter motor in the early 20th century. Since 1898, the Dayton Daily News has reported on these developments and more as the evening paper for the residents of Dayton, Ohio, United States. Its pages offer researchers a fascinating glimpse into the history and economic, cultural, and social life of the Ohio, the U.S., and the world from the late 19th century onwards.

Topics covered include:

- The birth of aviation research and development
- The industrial development of the U.S. and Dayton’s pivotal role
- The Great Dayton Flood, and advances in hydrological engineering
- The advent of the American Professional Football Association (precursor to the NFL)

Detroit Free Press (1831-1999)

"On Guard Since 1831" in the Motor City

TEN PULITZER PRIZES. Four Emmy Awards. One hundred and sixty-eight years of coverage. The first issue of the Detroit Free Press came hot off the presses on May 5, 1831 as The Democratic Free Press and Michigan Intelligencer, before Michigan had even entered statehood. This historic newspaper was first in many ways: First U.S. newspaper to print a regular Sunday edition. First U.S. newspaper to publish court testimony. It sent reporters to Civil War battlefields to describe the action, set up a Washington bureau to report on politics, and was the first American newspaper published in Europe when it began a London edition in 1881.

Scholars of labor relations, union history, and the automotive industry will find the Free Press a fundamental and must-have resource for insight on the birth of the Motor City, development of the United Automobile Workers (UAW) and auto manufacturing. Art and architecture. The race riots of 1943 and 1967. The Detroit Tigers. Stevie Wonder and The Supremes. In addition to these defining characteristics of Detroit, the Free Press also provides the scoop on national and international events from a regional perspective, as well as detailed coverage of daily life in the community.

Hartford Courant (1764–1992)

A front-row seat to the American Revolution

AMERICA'S LONGEST CONTINUOUSLY published newspaper, the Hartford Courant is literally older than the nation. It provides historians and other researchers a front-row seat from which to view the birth of an independent nation.

In the Courant's pages, today's researchers will find firsthand accounts of colonists' reaction to the Stamp Act, reports of the Boston Tea Party, and a copy of the Declaration of Independence. The newspaper's existence was so crucial to the rebels' cause during the American Revolution that when its paper mill burned, the Connecticut legislature authorized a lottery to build a new mill.

This publication also chronicles slavery in the United States, capturing the complexity of the debate by simultaneously publishing ads for the capture of fugitive slaves and writing in opposition of the Fugitive Slave Act. It became a staunch supporter of Abraham Lincoln's 1860 presidential campaign.

To study life in the U.S. from its very formation during the American Revolution, to its near collapse during the Civil War, and to its growth throughout the 20th century, start here, with ProQuest.

THE INDIANAPOLIS STAR.

ProQuest

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 24, 1914.

VOL. 12. NO. 49.

PRICE—TWO CENTS

The Indianapolis Star (1903–2004)

For 100 years, the largest paper in Indiana

LEARN ABOUT THE 1903 train wreck involving the Purdue University football team, relive the excitement of the town's first 500-mile automobile race in 1911, explore local coverage of one of the most lauded speeches of the 20th century, delivered by Robert F. Kennedy following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1968.

These iconic moments in history are among the people and events covered in The Indianapolis Star, the largest paper in Indiana, and a staunch watchdog and advocate for its community. Three times it has been honored with a Pulitzer Prize — once for meritorious public service and twice for investigative reporting. In 1975, the Star was honored for its 1974 series on corruption within the Indianapolis Police Department. It was cited again in 1991 for its 1990 series on medical malpractice.

Serious researchers and casual readers alike also will be interested in the photographs and illustrations captured in this historical newspaper's pages.

Los Angeles Times (1881–2010)

Chronicle of a century of America's westward expansion

RAILS CONNECT EAST and West for the first time. Oil is discovered in Los Angeles. Immigrants come ashore from Japan and China, as former slaves arrive from the South and Latinos arrive from Mexico. Aviation and moviemaking take flight. Los Angeles hosts the Olympic Games — twice. Shipbuilding and citrus growing become major industries. Local companies Wham-O and Mattel give birth to the Hula Hoop and Barbie. The city hosts the first Super Bowl. And, the historical Los Angeles Times (1881-2010) records it all.

The Los Angeles Times delivers unique coverage of the development of Southern California and the American West. Follow reporter Charles Lummis as he walks from Cincinnati to Los Angeles, recording his travels and providing a unique glimpse into Native American life. Read the Annual Trade Number Edition (published 1886-1962), which promoted Southern California to prospective immigrants from the East and Midwest. Review the "Noticias en Espanol" news summary column (published 1922-1933), which served the Times' Spanish-speaking audience.

The Courier-Journal

LOUISVILLE, WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 29, 1922.

Louisville Courier-Journal (1830–2000)

Kentucky's newspaper of record. 10 Pulitzer Prizes

THOMAS EDISON. The Kentucky Derby. Strip mining. Prohibition. Decades of natural disaster, including the devastating tornado of 1890 and the Ohio River flood in 1937. Louisville's Courier-Journal offers award-winning in-depth coverage of the pivotal people and events who shaped the local region, and made an impact on the rest of the world.

In the early decades of the 20th century, the Courier-Journal became a forum for conflict when it was purchased by liberal Robert Worth Bingham whose views clashed with the longtime conservative editor, Henry Watterson. The paper went on to become a progressive voice in southern politics, championing causes such as public education, equal rights for blacks and advocating for the poor of Appalachia. The Courier-Journal became the first U.S. daily newspaper to appoint a woman managing editor when Carol Sutton accepted the position in 1974.

For researchers seeking an authoritative regional perspective on national and international events, as well as local perspectives on community news, the digitized pages of this newspaper (1830-2000) are a valuable resource in a variety of fields, including history, political science, African-American studies, genealogy and more.

Minneapolis Star Tribune (1867-2001)

Award-winning news from the City of Lakes

PRINCE. BOB DYLAN. Husker Du. The Andrews Sisters. These musicians are just some of the many notable people – including artists, activists, scientists and politicians – who have contributed to the progressive, independent and creative climate of Minneapolis. Researchers will find robust primary source insights on the development of this slice of American culture in the city's long time newspaper, the Minneapolis Star Tribune.

Early issues of the Star Tribune also document the rise of Minneapolis as a business hub, with coverage of growth in flour- and graining-milling industries, culminating in the foundation of General Mills, Pillsbury and the Washburn-Crosby Company. Related stories trace the railroad boom of the late 1800s, the debut of the first hydroelectric power plant in 1882, and the advent of worker protection laws resulting from the Teamsters strike of 1934.

Other regional topics that reflect national and international trends of the times include news about gangsters and bootleggers during Prohibition, as well as civil rights activities in response to anti-Semitism, backlash against the first major party Black candidate for the city's mayor, and the establishment of the American Indian Movement for the advancement of Native Americans.

The Nashville Tennessean (1812–2002)

National, International and Regional News from "The Volunteer State"

NASHVILLE'S PRIMARY NEWSPAPER emerged during a defining period in the history of Tennessee, the same year the War of 1812 was declared on Britain and the state established its enduring political and military legacy. Tennesseans volunteered en masse (hence the nickname "The Volunteer State") to help defend the nation's "Lower Country" under the command of Maj. Gen. Andrew Jackson. Through to the victory at the Battle of New Orleans in 1815, the publication (then known as the Nashville Whig) provided in-depth coverage of a war close to its readers' hearts.

Nashville's other nickname, "Music City USA" is inspired by legendary country music landmarks and attractions found there, including the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum, Belcourt Theatre, and Ryman Auditorium, the original home of the Grand Ole Opry. Additionally, the city is known as "The Hot Chicken Capital" after a spicy local take on fried chicken which is celebrated during the Hot Chicken Festival each year in Nashville.

Beyond major events covering nearly two centuries, including the state's pivotal role in the American Civil War, and other national and international news, the digitized pages of The Nashville Tennessean (1812-2002) provide unique historical insight into the regional issues and concerns, such as local government, industrialization, prohibition, and racial struggles. This diverse, easily-accessible primary source material is an invaluable tool for effective research by users in almost any field.

The New York Times (1851–2015) with Index (1851–1993)

The definitive record of the day

KNOWN AS "AMERICA'S NEWSPAPER" for more than a century, The New York Times has also commanded international readership. The world news and personal stories captured by this Pulitzer Prize-winning newspaper for nearly 170 years are available online from ProQuest so researchers anywhere can browse and search the digitized pages of this definitive record of the day.

Incorporated into the digitized newspaper is the historic The New York Times Index. The digitized Index allows users to search on and view terms exactly as they appeared in the New York Times print index and newspaper articles. The ProQuest digitization effort was true to the time, reflecting the vocabulary and issues of the age. More than 3 million digitized index terms are available. Researchers can move beyond key words to search for articles by subject, company, location, person, or creative work. Research outcomes are further enhanced through the addition of abstracts, detailed citation information, as well as topic headings for further exploration.

From the digitized pages of The New York Times explore the:

- Arrival of immigrants to America's shores
- Rise and fall of global financial markets
- Introduction of the mass-produced automobile, television, space travel, and medical innovations
- Causes and effects of the Civil War in the 1800s to the war on terrorism in this century
- From Beijing to Bangalore, nearly 30,000 graduate works spanning 40 countries have referenced The New York Times since 2000 in the ProQuest Dissertations & Theses Global database, citing critical findings from its pages on topics as diverse as music, management, anthropology, computer science, military history, and more.

New York Tribune (1841–1962)

Coverage of key events of the 19th and 20th centuries

HORACE GREELEY, FOUNDER of the New York Tribune, was arguably one of the most colorful and powerful publishers of his time. His editorials influenced the abolishment of slavery, plagued presidents and politicians, and encouraged the settlement of the West. His newspaper featured revolutionary thinkers such as Margaret Fuller, Karl Marx, and Friedrich Engels. Reform-minded Greeley, whose newspaper had a circulation of more than a quarter of a million by the 1860s, helped form the Republican Party and ran for president in 1872.

Today's knowledge seekers will find ProQuest's coverage of the New York Tribune ideal for researching key events of the 19th and 20th centuries, from pre-Civil War tensions and U.S. internationalism to the fight for women's rights and the completion of the Panama Canal. In addition to politics and reform, this newspaper also reports on the arts, New York society, sports, business and finance, and much more, making it a valuable resource for scholars in many fields.

The Philadelphia Inquirer (1860-2001)

Third-oldest surviving newspaper in the U.S.

THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER, one of the longest surviving daily newspapers in the United States, is known for its coverage of the American Civil War that was popular with readers on both sides; its published works by Charles Dickens and Edgar Allan Poe; and its reporting of breaking news in the city, country, and around the world.

From the first shots fired upon Fort Sumter and the start of the Civil War, to the assassination of civil rights advocate Octavius V. Catto over the right for Blacks to vote; from the flu pandemic of 1918 that killed 12,000 Philly residents in one month — and 675,000 in all nationwide — to the debut of a local dance show, American Bandstand in 1952, The Philadelphia Inquirer offers a regional perspective of an exceptionally unique mix of historical events as they unfolded.

For researchers on a range of subjects, such as American History and culture, African American studies, literature and economics, the digitized pages of this prestigious newspaper — founded with an editorial commitment to the right of a minority to set forth its opinions, “however discordant they may be with those of the majority” — are an accessible, insightful, invaluable resource.

Pittsburgh Post-Gazette (1786-2003)

Historical perspectives from the “Gateway to the West”

NEARLY AS OLD as the United States itself, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette performed one of its initial acts of public service by printing the newly adopted Constitution of the United States in 1787. Then a four-page weekly produced on a wooden press, Post-Gazette was the first newspaper to make the dangerous journey by wagon over the mountains from Philadelphia.

The Post-Gazette went on to offer leading coverage of the U.S. westward expansion into Ohio and the Northwest Territory, the political unrest leading to the U.S. Civil War, and the industrial revolution—from coal mining to the rise of the steel industry. Andrew Carnegie. Henry Clay Frick. Andrew Mellon. H.J. Heinz. United States Steel Corp. The Homestead Steel Strike. The Pittsburgh Steelers. Carnegie-Mellon Library. And so much more. All covered in the pages of the historical Post-Gazette.

Today, the daily publication – winner of six Pulitzer Prizes since 1938 – is the largest daily newspaper serving metropolitan Pittsburgh. Reporting news in a city that was once considered the industrial center of a nation, and now considered an education and medical hub, this newspaper offers researchers valuable regional perspectives on international, national and local news.

WHILE RUINS STILL SMOKE WORK BEGINS ON THE NEW CITY

San Francisco Chronicle (1865–1922)

Chronicling Western expansion, growth, and immigration

NOT EARTHQUAKES, NOT FIRES, not even the murder of one of its owners by a minister could stop the independent and often irreverent presses of the San Francisco Chronicle. Founded by two teenage brothers in 1865 when the West was still wild, this newspaper lets researchers travel back in time to experience the completion of the transcontinental railroad, the Klondike gold rush, the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906, America's entry into World War I, and many other events that shaped both the City by the Bay and the United States.

During its first five decades, the San Francisco Chronicle presented issues from a young, Northwestern perspective, giving researchers a window through which to study westward expansion, Chinese immigration, machine politics, urban planning, war, public policy, and more.

Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Jack London, and Rex Beach are among the writers who contributed to the San Francisco Chronicle's pages — some without benefit of a byline — during the early years. To trace San Francisco's history from a muddy frontier town full of pistol-packing pioneers and corrupt politicians, through its entry into the Roaring '20s, start here.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch (1874–2003)

Award-winning news, sports and culture coverage from the Midwest

KATE CHOPIN. Tennessee Williams. Chuck Berry. Miles Davis. These are just some of the cultural icons of St. Louis featured in the city's long-running newspaper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. In addition, the publication includes coverage of all nine of the St. Louis Cardinals championships, an NBA title for the St. Louis Hawks in 1958 and the St. Louis Rams 2000 Super Bowl victory. The Post-Dispatch is also the nation's first paper with a color comics section.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch was noted for its investigative reporting and human interest stories. Created by Joseph Pulitzer of two pre-existing newspapers, the Post-Dispatch is the only St. Louis newspaper still in print. It was the incubator for several well-known writers, including Mark Twain, who wrote for the newspaper from 1874 to 1891. In addition to valuable coverage of pivotal regional events – the history of Anheuser-Busch, a massive smog problem, the completion of the landmark Gateway Arch – the daily publication provides a uniquely Midwestern perspective of local, national and international news.

For researchers seeking authoritative insight on business, culture, African-American history, U.S. history, natural disasters, genealogy and much more, the digitized pages of this newspaper (1823-2003) are a valuable resource in a variety of fields, including history, political science, African-American studies, genealogy and more. As Joseph Pulitzer's first newspaper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is an especially important research tool for journalism scholars today.

SAYS NEGOTIATIONS SAVED THEM FROM 'SLOW DEATH'

St. Petersburg Times/Tampa Bay Times (1901-2009)

One of the top 10 U.S. newspapers

A PROGRESSIVE VOICE ON FLORIDA'S conservative west coast, the Tampa Bay Times is one of the top 10 newspapers in the United States. Known as the St. Petersburg Times until 2012, this publication is owned by the Poynter Institute for Media Studies, a non-profit school of journalism. This unique ownership structure ensures the newspaper's independent voice and makes it an invaluable resource in the study of journal and philanthropy.

From "true" to "pants on fire," reporters and editors of the St. Petersburg Times ranked statements from government officials and interest groups during the 2008 presidential campaign through its fact-checking initiative, PolitiFact.com. For this revolutionary tool – which examined more than 750 political claims during the 2016 election cycle, empowering readers to distinguish between evidence-based reporting and rhetoric – The St. Petersburg Times/Tampa Bay Times won one of the 12 Pulitzer Prizes it's been awarded since 1964.

The paper has also been honored for its coverage of regional concerns, such as the urban growth of neglect in Florida mental hospitals and corruption in a local sheriff's office. The St. Petersburg Times/Tampa Bay Times is an exceptional primary source for scholarship on local, national and international history dating from 1901-2009, as well for students honing critical-thinking skills to discern fact-based information.

Washington Post (1877–2002)

An unparalleled resource for comprehensive political reporting

KNOWN FOR ITS comprehensive political reporting, first-rate photo essays, Pulitzer Prize-winning editorial writing, and unmatched investigative reporting, the historical Washington Post (1877-2002) is an unparalleled resource for today's budding journalists, political historians, and students of government.

The Washington Post was the first newspaper in Washington to publish seven days a week. Early contributors included Joseph Pulitzer and a relatively unknown, un-bylined Theodore Roosevelt, who contributed stories about the West. Beginning in the 1940s, the newspaper featured editorial cartoonist Herbert L. Block ("Herblock"), who used his drawings to express indignation with political leaders and to "raise hell." He coined the term "McCarthyism" in the 1950s and was unrelenting in his graphic characterization of Richard Nixon.

This newspaper is perhaps most famous for a series of stories that began with a break-in at the Watergate office complex in 1972. When it was all over, reporters Woodward and Bernstein were household names, and President Nixon had resigned in disgrace. To uncover even more Washington intrigue and drama, start here, with ProQuest.

The Globe and Mail (1844–2014)

Canada's National Newspaper of Record

THE GLOBE AND MAIL is Canada's largest circulation national newspaper and is typically cited as being "Canada's Newspaper of Record." The Globe was founded in 1844 by Scottish immigrant George Brown, a liberal who later became a Father of the Confederation, and in 1936 merged with The Mail and Empire and became The Globe and Mail. While the paper was largely known as a general conservative voice of the business establishment, it did have some liberal sway; an editorial in a 1967 issue coined the phrase "The State has no place in the bedrooms of the nation."

The Globe and Mail, as Canada's National Newspaper of Record, is a great complement to the historical New York Times with Index.

Fearless reporting and controversial opinions

THE GUARDIAN (1821-2003) and its sister paper, The Observer (1791-2003) give readers online access to facts, firsthand accounts, and opinions of the day about the most significant and fascinating political, business, sports, literary, and entertainment events from the past two centuries. From Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo to the Russian Revolution to Nelson Mandela's release from prison, these British historical newspapers bring history to life for researchers.

The Guardian and The Observer have reputations for fearless reporting and controversial opinions. The Guardian was first published in response to the Peterloo Massacre. Originally known as the Manchester Guardian, it was a Saturday-only paper until the newspaper stamp duty was repealed in 1855. Businessmen who hated its progressive opinions would tear the paper in half, throw the commentary out the train window, and only read the portion containing stock prices.

The Observer, the world's oldest Sunday paper, was first published in 1791. Thought-provoking writers such as George Orwell, Vita Sackville-West, Clive James, Philip Toynbee, and others were contributors, continuing a tradition of freedom of the press and providing serious coverage of politics and literature.

The Irish Times (1859–2016) and the Weekly Irish Times (1876–1958)

Ireland's "only independent newspaper"

EXPLORE NEARLY 150 years of the Emerald Isle's turbulent history, rich culture, and complex political climate with The Irish Times (1859-2016) and the Weekly Irish Times (1876-1958). From the aftermath of the Great Famine, the launch of the Titanic, and the Easter Rising of 1916, to the World Wars, the Troubles, and today's most pressing global social issues, Ireland's "only independent newspaper" lends its authoritative voice to local and international events alike.

The Irish Times provides comprehensive news reporting as well as sports, business, arts, lifestyle coverage, and more. Each issue contains in-depth analysis and lively debate of current events. The Weekly Irish Times' coverage includes The Times Pictorial. These titles provide access to prominent columnists, including arts commentator Fintan O'Toole, satirist Miriam Lord, former Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald, and opinion editorial writers like Tony Blair and Bill Clinton.

Because complete runs of The Irish Times and the Weekly Irish Times have been captured, researchers can follow the progression of events — and even the newspaper's evolution from "new conservative daily paper" to today's more progressive publication — over time.

The Jerusalem Post (1932–2008)

Historically influential news source of the Middle East

FOUNDED IN 1932 as The Palestine Post, this paper established itself as the top English-language paper of the Middle East and Jewish world. Popular with British servicemen and women stationed in the region, as well as readers in Cairo and Alexandria, the paper had strong readership in both Jewish and Arab cities throughout Palestine. The publication fervently supported the struggle for a Jewish homeland and freely opposed British restrictions on Jewish immigration.

In 1948, only months prior to the declaration of Israel as an independent state, terrorists parked a stolen vehicle loaded with explosives outside the newspaper office in the center of Jerusalem. The devastating attack left three people dead, dozens injured, and the presses completely destroyed. Yet, by the next morning, the latest edition of The Palestine Post was out in print, albeit in a reduced format, run off at small local print shop.

The publication came to be known as The Jerusalem Post in 1950. Over the decades, the paper espoused a left-leaning perspective that shifted to the right in the 1980s. It is regarded as one of the world's most important newspaper titles, with in-depth historical coverage of regional and world events, and excellent resource for researchers of a various topics. But perhaps above all, this collection of digitized pages from The Jerusalem Post archives (1932-2008) particularly tells firsthand the history of the state of Israel.

The Korea Times (1956-2016)

A long view of regional and international issues and events

THE OLDEST AND most influential English-language newspaper in Korea, The Korea Times is globally recognized for its coverage of international business, economic and financial news – historically through contemporary times – as well as its perspective on regional issues and events.

From South Korea's diplomatic relationship with its neighbors such as China, Russia and Japan, to the nuclear crisis in North Korea and relations between Korea and the U.S., The Korea Times provides a broad overview of issues over time. It offers deeper insight and analysis of such critical events as the April Revolution of 1960; the Vietnam War; the attempted assassination South Korean President Park Chung-hee; the Axe Murder Incident in 1976, in which two US Army officers were killed by North Korean soldiers in the DMZ; and the end of the Cold War.

Contemporary coverage serves as a window into modern politics, society, economy, and culture in Korea, including the controversial rule of Kim Jong Il and Kim Jong-un in North Korea. This diverse, easily-accessible source material is an invaluable tool for efficient research by users in history, international relations, Korean studies, economics and more.

The Scotsman (1817–1950)

An independent voice and uniquely Scottish analysis of local and global events

WHEN IT WAS founded in 1817, The Scotsman was so radical that it was considered “incendiary.” Today, it continues to provide an independent voice and uniquely Scottish analysis of local and global events.

From the death of Sir Walter Scott to the death of Abraham Lincoln, from the publication of Mary Shelley's Frankenstein to the fashion for tea salons in Victorian Glasgow, and from the Catholic Emancipation Bill to the crash of the U.S. stock market, The Scotsman captured the unprecedented turmoil and change occurring on both sides of the Atlantic during the 19th and 20th centuries.

Because The Scotsman, part of ProQuest's Historical Newspapers, is delivered on the same platform as The Guardian, The Observer, The Irish Times, and Weekly Irish Times, researchers can easily compare and contrast facts and opinions conveyed in these newspapers. The result is a more comprehensive understanding of the modern history of the British Isles and Ireland.

LAST EDITION THE EVENING STAR

ProQuest

TORONTO, MONDAY, JANUARY 3, 1898

ONE CENT

Toronto Star (1894–2015)

Canada's highest circulation newspaper

THE TORONTO STAR is Canada's highest circulation newspaper and was unique among early North American newspapers in its consistent advocacy of ordinary people. It was an advocate of social causes such as the welfare state, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, and health care. It is generally considered to be the most leftwing of Canada's major newspapers and a major influence on the development of Canadian social policy. Its early opposition of the Nazi regime saw the paper become the first North American paper to be banned in Germany by its government.

The historical Toronto Star provides a great historical counter balance to The Globe and Mail.

Historical Black Newspapers

Essential primary source content and editorial perspectives of the most distinguished African American newspapers in the U.S. Each of the nine Historical Black Newspapers provides researchers with unprecedented access to perspectives and information that was excluded or marginalized in mainstream sources. The content, including articles, obituaries, photos, editorials, and more, is easily accessible for scholars of the history of race relations, journalism, local and national politics, education, African-American studies, and many multidisciplinary subjects.

From coverage by the first black White House correspondent and stories on the cultural explosion of the Harlem Renaissance, to exposure of, and arguments against, social injustice, these publications reveal history as it was being made, by the people who experienced it.

Atlanta Daily World (1931–2003)

The voice of the Southern black community

W.A. SCOTT II FOUNDED the Atlanta Daily World at a time when most black Americans lived in the South. He felt that “the race problem” could only be solved in the South, which required an informed community. Rather than reading news about African-Americans “through the optics of a host of prejudiced white papers,” he launched his own newspaper to educate, inspire, uplift, and promote the expression of the Southern black community.

Follow first-hand coverage of the infamous Scottsboro Case; read reviews of Richard Wright’s best-selling protest novel, Native Son; witness the fight for civil rights from a black, Southern perspective; and more through this historically important newspaper.

Home to the first black correspondent assigned to cover the White House, this newspaper continues to inform the Atlanta metropolitan community and beyond. More than seven decades of this newspaper’s historic coverage, online and easily searchable, is available from ProQuest for both researchers and readers.

The Baltimore Afro-American (1893–1988)

One of the most widely circulated African-American newspapers on the Atlantic Coast

FOUNDED BY FORMER slave John Henry Murphy, Sr. when he merged three church publications, The Baltimore Afro-American became one of the most widely circulated African-American newspapers on the Atlantic Coast. In addition to featuring the first black female reporter (Murphy's daughter) and female sportswriters, the paper's contributors have included writer Langston Hughes, intellectual J. Saunders Redding, artist Romare Bearden, and sports editor Sam Lacy, whose column influenced the desegregation of professional sports.

Through the decades, the newspaper fought for equal employment rights, urged African-American participation in politics, and advocated state-funded higher education for blacks. In the 1930s, The Afro-American launched "The Clean Block" campaign, which is still in existence today, to clean up inner-city neighborhoods and fight crime. It stationed correspondents in Europe and the Pacific during World War II, providing first-hand reports to readers.

In the 1950s, working with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the newspaper's efforts contributed to the outlawing of public school segregation. To see history being made, start here.

Cleveland Call & Post (1934–1991)

Activism in action

EDITOR WILLIAM O. WALKER used his newspaper to rally the masses in support of equal rights, much as civil rights leaders would decades later. In the 1930s, the Cleveland Call & Post called upon the local community to support the Scottsboro defendants with letters, clothing, stamps, and cigarettes. It also encouraged donations to the defense fund for the innocent youths, reminding its readers that the freedom of nine Southern black boys wasn't all that was at stake — so were the rights of all black Americans to a fair jury trial.

Through his newspaper, Walker also promoted participation in politics, urged the establishment of legal aid societies by the African-American community, and encouraged black solidarity and self-reliance. Today's researchers can explore online 57 years of the Cleveland Call & Post.

Chicago Defender (1910–1975)

Leading voice of the black community

THE CHICAGO DEFENDER has been a leading voice of the black community well beyond the Windy City, with more than two-thirds of its readership outside Chicago. The newspaper was a proponent of The Great Migration, the move of over 1.5 million African-Americans from the segregated South to the industrial North from 1915 to 1925. It reported on the Red Summer race riots of 1919, and editorialized for anti-lynching legislation and the integration of blacks into the U.S. military. This newspaper also supported the aviation career of Bessie Coleman, the first African-American female pilot, and promoted the writing of Langston Hughes and Gwendolyn Brooks, poet laureate of Illinois.

Over six decades of this newspaper’s historic coverage, online and easily searchable for both researchers and readers, is available from ProQuest.

Los Angeles Sentinel (1934–2005)

The perspective of the Los Angeles African-American community

FROM ITS EARLIEST beginnings when it urged African-Americans not to “spend your money where you can’t work,” the Los Angeles Sentinel has exposed prejudice, promoted social change, and empowered the black community.

By accessing more than 70 years of cover-to-cover reporting, today’s readers view the Depression through the eyes of African-Americans in the 1930s. They can follow the grass-roots struggle against the racially restrictive housing covenants of the 1940s. Researchers can follow Roy Wilkins’ column, “The Watchtower,” and see how he attacked efforts to label civil rights activists as “communists” during the Cold War. Today, this independent publication continues to cover community and world issues from the unique cultural perspective of the Los Angeles African-American community.

New York Amsterdam News (1922–1993)

Important regional scholarship

FROM AN INITIAL $10 investment, the New York Amsterdam News grew to become one of the nation's leading black newspapers and one of New York's most influential black-owned institutions. For nearly a century, it has helped influence and promote the causes and aspirations of African-Americans. Contributors have included W. E. B. Du Bois, Roy Wilkins, Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., and Malcolm X.

The New York Amsterdam News captured the vibrancy and cultural richness of the Harlem Renaissance in the 1920s, advocated for the desegregation of the U.S. military during World War II, and fought against discriminatory employment practices and other civil rights abuses in the 1960s. Today, the New York Amsterdam News continues to deliver local, national, and international stories of interest to its multicultural readership.

More than 70 continuous years of cover-to-cover news from this remarkable publication is available online now from ProQuest.

The Norfolk Journal and Guide (1921–2003)

One of the best researched and written newspapers of the era

UNDER THE LEADERSHIP of P.B. Young, the “Dean of the Negro Press,” The Norfolk Journal and Guide became one of the best researched and written newspapers of its era, with a circulation of more than 80,000 by the 1940s. It argued against restrictive covenants, rallied against lynching, encouraged blacks to vote, supported improvements to city streets and water systems, and more. In contrast to other black newspapers, such as the Chicago Defender (with which The Norfolk Journal and Guide is cross searchable), this newspaper campaigned against The Great Migration of Southern laborers to the North. It was one of only a few black newspapers to provide on-the-scene coverage of the 1930s Scottsboro trial, and helped raise legal funds for the nine young black defendants.

This Southern-based newspaper had to use a factual, unemotional tone in expressing opinions on social injustice. This approach attracted advertising from local and national white-owned businesses — such as Goodrich, Pillsbury, and Ford — that other black newspapers didn't receive. Let these articles, advertisements, editorials, and so much more bring history to life for your researchers.

The Philadelphia Tribune (1912–2001)

The oldest continuously published daily black newspaper in the U.S.

THE OLDEST CONTINUOUSLY published daily black newspaper in the U.S., The Philadelphia Tribune was founded by Christopher James Perry. His paper conveyed ideas and opinions about local and national issues affecting blacks in the post-emancipation period, and today continues to serve the country's fourth-largest African-American community.

The Philadelphia Tribune campaigned to appoint black citizens to the board of education, city council, and judiciary. It actively supported the growth of the United Way fund and launched a "clean block" program, promoting the health, safety, and well-being of the city's residents. The newspaper fought against segregation and rallied against the race riots in Chester, Pennsylvania.

Start with ProQuest to access nearly 90 years of news written by and for African-Americans.

Pittsburgh Courier (1911–2002)

The most widely circulated black newspaper in the U.S. in the early 20th century

URGING AFRICAN-AMERICANS to actively participate in shaping their political destinies — and often leading the charge — the Pittsburgh Courier was once the most widely circulated black newspaper in the U.S. in the early 20th century.

The newspaper campaigned for increasing the number of black physicians and opening a hospital to serve the black community in Pittsburgh, where white facilities often refused to provide services. In the 1930s, the newspaper led a nationwide protest against the Amos 'n' Andy radio show and its advertisers because of the media's offensive portrayal of African-Americans. The publication's "Double V" campaign during World War II demanded equal rights at home for black soldiers risking their lives overseas.

Through the decades, intellectuals and influential writers such as W.E.B. DuBois, Marcus Garvey, James Weldon Johnson, Zora Neale Hurston, and others have written columns or reported for the newspaper. For access to these writers and more, ProQuest offers more than 90 continuous years of the Pittsburgh Courier online.

Historical American Jewish Newspapers

For historical coverage of regional, national, and international Jewish news and interests, the newspaper titles in this collection support in-depth research from a unique perspective. From news coverage and editorial perspectives issues related to the Holocaust, immigration and Zionism, to culture, genealogy and religious studies, these newspapers bring to life events, places, and people, highlighting a point of view not readily available or often included in mainstream media.

The international politics behind the establishment of Israel. The appointment of the first Jewish Supreme Court Justice. Spotlighted Jewish figures in art and literature. Developments in American Reform Judaism.

Scholars have the ability to explore issues and events such as these as they unfolded, from the perspectives of the people who were there.

The American Hebrew and Jewish Messenger (1857–1922)

A Jewish American perspective in a rapidly changing world

FOUNDED IN NEW York City in 1857, The American Hebrew was established as the weekly source of news impacting international Jewish communities. Reports on the persecution of Jews in Romania and Russia, and the subsequent influx of Jewish immigrants to the U.S., were of intense interest to readers of the paper. In 1919, the publication featured an article called “The Crucifixion of Jews Must Stop!” by former New York governor Martin H. Glynn, where he cried out against the poor living conditions and treatment of Jews across Europe following World War I – a situation he discerned as a potential “holocaust.”

The American Hebrew also spotlighted Jewish figures in arts and literature, such as Emma Lazarus, who gained posthumous fame when her sonnet “The New Colossus” was inscribed on the base of the Statue of Liberty in 1912. The poet published the first poem she translated from the original Hebrew in an 1883 issue of the newspaper, and she joined her voice with other writers to advocate for opportunities in industrial education for Russian refugees. A special issue commemorating the death of Lazarus in 1884 featured tributes from such literary luminaries as Robert Browning, Edgar Rice Burroughs and John Greenleaf Whittier.

Upon merging with The Jewish Messenger in 1903, the newspaper was officially known as The American Hebrew and Jewish Messenger. For students and researchers from a variety of fields, including U.S. and world history, culture, and Jewish studies, the digitized pages of this historic publication (1857-1922) are an invaluable resource from a Jewish American perspective in a rapidly changing world.

The American Israelite (1854–2000)

National, regional, and local news for the Jewish community

“LET THERE BE LIGHT” has been the motto of The American Israelite since it was first published in 1854 with the intention to illuminate principles of Jewish faith and instill a sense of community among American Jews who often lived in geographically dispersed locations. Originally printed as The Israelite until 1874, this weekly is considered the longest-running English-language Jewish newspaper available in the country.

Published in Cincinnati, OH, the paper was started by Rabbi Isaac Mayer Wise, best known as the founder of Reform Judaism in the U.S. The American Israelite published numerous editorial columns ardently in defense of the civil and religious rights of all Jews, written by Wise. These efforts eventually led to the formation of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations which he initiated in Cincinnati. Wise also frequently penned columns calling for a Jewish educational institution, resulting in the establishment of the Hebrew Union College. Additionally, Wise also wrote several novels which were published as serials in his newspaper.

For insight into the growth and development of Reform Judaism in the U.S., the digitized issues of The American Israelite (1854-2000) provide a valuable record of events and issues as they unfolded. Access to these primary source materials will be of benefit to students and researchers interested in culture and civil rights history, as well as national and world news presented from a Jewish American perspective.

The Jewish Advocate (1905–1990)

A historical perspective on the development of Jewish-American culture

THE JEWISH ADVOCATE was first printed in Boston, 1909, by Jacob deHass, executive secretary to the founder of modern political Zionism. With the intention to serve and unite the booming Jewish community throughout New England, The Jewish Advocate was formed to instruct on matters of the Jewish faith and to champion the establishment of a Jewish state. Briefly, the newspaper was also published as The Jewish Home Journal and The Boston Advocate.

The pages of The Jewish Advocate gave voice to the publication's staunch support for the appointment of Louis Brandeis as the first Jewish Supreme Court Justice in the U.S., and nearly thirty years later for the foundation of Brandeis University in Waltham, MA. In the years leading up to the World War II, the newspaper was also a rare voice in the media to warn of Hitler's rise to power in Europe, and the threat it posed for Jewish people. Following the war, organizations formed to rebuild the lives of Jewish refugees found support and a forum for discussion and debate in the weekly publication.

The Jewish Advocate continues to be a primary source of regional, national and international news and information for subscribers in New England and across the U.S., as well around the world. This digital newspaper archive (1905-1990) provides an in-depth historical perspective on issues and events pertaining to the rise of Zionism and the development of Jewish-American culture.

The Jewish Exponent (1887–1990)

“Devoted to the Interests of the Jewish People”

THE JEWISH EXPONENT first hit the presses in 1887, founded by a group of 43 prominent Philadelphia businessmen. This stock ownership was meant to ensure the newspaper represented the entire community while serving in its coverage of local, national and international news. Charles Hoffman, a native Philadelphian lawyer and rabbi, as well as an ardent Zionist, served as the publication’s first editor and publisher. He penned a weekly column, “Men and Things” as a platform to explore issues of conservative Judaism.

From the early days of the worldwide Zionist movement, The Jewish Exponent staunchly supported the establishment of a Jewish homeland and carried news of developments in Israel. Other topics the publication championed and brought to the attention of readers in the early and mid-20th century included Jewish immigration and the expanding influence in American public life. Over the decades The Jewish Exponent has not only been a primary source of news and information, but also a forum for stimulating discussion and debate. The publication has received annual awards from the American Jewish Press Association for excellence in Jewish Journalism.

This historical archive (1887-1990) benefits scholars and researchers interested in national and world history, Jewish culture, local genealogy, foreign relations, social issues and numerous other academic subjects. In addition, The Jewish Exponent provides a valuable historical perspective on the rise of Zionism, issues related to Jewish immigration, and the development of Jewish-American culture.

Specialty Historical Newspapers

Communist Historical Newspapers

Publications of the Communist Party USA, 1919-2013

A UNIQUE LOOK AT HISTORY, through the eyes of the Communist Party USA. Workers' rights, social issues, national and international politics, culture and Party activity are just some of the topics to be explored on the pages of these Communist Party newspapers, featuring such notable contributors as writer Richard Wright, folk singer Woody Guthrie and political cartoonist Robert Minor.

These publications were not only used by Party members to share news and exchange ideas. A large number of subscribers in the late 1950s-1960s were CIA agents or front companies linked to the CIA, according to ex-agent Philip Agee. He claimed that funds from CIA subscriptions prevented one of the titles, Daily Worker, from having to shut down.

While much of the content in these newspapers focuses on workers' rights and organized labor (a boon to scholars in these fields), other articles and ads reveal a glimpse of the people who made up the Communist Party. Reviews of books and performances, invitations to social events, analysis of international news and events from a decidedly left-wing perspective make Communist Historical Newspapers a unique resource across the curriculum.
