Martin Gerwers New Works

03.09 – 10.10.2020

Opening Thursday
3 September 17-20 hrs

Slewe Gallery starts the new season with an exhibition of new works by German artist Martin Gerwers (*1963). The exhibition opens Thursday September 3 and runs until October 10.

Gerwers, known for his monumental abstract geometric paintings, will show a new series of paintings with oblique lines and planes, and some three-dimensional colored objects. These wooden structures are stacks of three triangular shaped blocks and painted in his well-known subtle color range of different yellow, dark red and blue-gray.

Martin Gerwers lives and works in Düsseldorf. After his study at the Art Academy in Düsseldorf, he exhibited at Konrad Fischer and at Galerie Tschudi in Glarus and Zuoz (CH). Since 1999 he exhibits at Slewe Gallery at a regular base. His work is part of several prominent private and public collections, including the Stedelijk Museum Amsterdam and the Daimler Art Collection in Berlin. In 2013 he had an exhibition in the project hall of the Kunstmuseum in The Hague and in 2015 he had a solo exhibition at the Leopold Hoesch Museum in Düren. This Autumn he will participate in the group show Crisis? What Crisis? In Port25, Raum für Gegenwartskunst in Mannheim and in a group exhibition in the Vasarely Museum in Budapest. Both exhibitions open September 18, 2020.
